

The new Enterprise Publishing Company has assumed the management of the Virginia Enterprise, which is no longer a Wall Street organ. In announcing the change of management and policies it says:

"The politics of the paper will necessarily be independent, aligning itself, as it will, with the principles announced by the Silver party of Nevada in the last political campaign. To carry out those principles, independence of action and thought is required. In no other way can Silver be held as our paramount industry."

"It will be the earnest endeavor of the Enterprise to protect the interests of the people against corporate greed, avarice and every encroachment upon their civil rights and personal liberty from every quarter whatsoever, but at the same time recognizing the mutual, independent interests of both."

The Enterprise, though published in a city wholly dependent upon silver mining for support, exhibited the most remarkable inconsistency in the recent campaign by opposing a party that was pledged to support free coinage and advocating the success of a party whose representatives in the Lower House of Congress last July gave only nine votes for the Stewart free coinage bill and as a consequence it lost influence and patronage as it was not in accord with public sentiment.

WORKING TOGETHER.

The Silver party charged during the recent campaign that Wall Street dictated the financial planks of the National platform of the Republican and Democratic parties. This charge was denied by the Wall Street organs of this State. Now, there is proof positive that several of the leaders of both old parties are working together to defeat the silver men. The Chicago platform committed the party to the repeal of the Bullion Purchase Act of 1890, and Senator Sherman of Ohio introduced a bill to repeal the Act in conformity with the Democratic platform before Congress adjourned last Summer. To day the goldbugs of both old parties in the Senate and House of Representatives are working harmoniously to repeal that Act and the Silver men have all that they can do to prevent them from accomplishing their purpose. However much Sherman and M. Pherson may differ on the tariff and some other questions they are in full accord in opposition to silver and are working together to accomplish the purposes of Wall Street.

CONGRESSMAN SPRINGER'S bill to change the mode of electing a President does away with electors. It proposes that the majority vote shall be counted in each State and allowed its proportionate number of electoral votes. Had this method been adopted before the recent election Cleveland would receive 211 votes, Harrison 182, Weaver 44, and Bidwell 6, and as Cleveland lacks about 850,000 votes of having a popular majority the election would have gone to the House of Representatives.

SOME of the peculiarities of the electoral vote are that in California Harrison received one vote and Cleveland eight, in Oregon Weaver received one vote and Harrison three, and in Ohio Cleveland received one vote and Harrison twenty two. In New York the electors cast thirty six votes for Cleveland and endorsed Edward Murphy, who is opposed by Cleveland, for United States Senator.

PRESIDENT HARRISON has issued a proclamation granting full amnesty and pardon to all persons liable to the penalties of the Act of Congress of 1892, defining the crimes of bigamy, polygamy and unlawful cohabitation, who have since November 1, 1890, abstained from such unlawful cohabitation, but upon the express condition that they shall in future obey the laws of the United States.

THE Hailey (Idaho) News-Miner notes that silver in New York is 83 cents an ounce and says "If this is the best that an Administration friendly to silver can do after nearly a year of power, for God's sake give us an Administration hostile to silver and then there won't be any kick coming."

It is reported in Washington that W. W. Foote, who withdrew from the Senatorial contest in California will be given a position in Cleveland's Cabinet. The Pacific Coast has never been given a Cabinet position and it is time that its claims to a place were recognized.

THE Kansas Populists have decided to support a "middle of the road" candidate for Senator. The Democrats are not pleased with this decision and it is understood they will stand firm for a compromise candidate, as they hold the balance of power.

SENATOR CARLISLE of Kentucky denies the report circulated at Washington that he has prepared his resignation, to take effect February 14th, to take a place in Cleveland's Cabinet. He says he has not yet made up his mind whether he will resign or not.

SENATOR J. P. JONES has arrived at London from Bassala. His wife and niece are on the Riviera, where they will spend the winter.

ARKANSAS GOVERNOR DYING.

Congressional.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—In the Senate this morning the quarantine bill was taken up. White's amendment that all provisions of the act shall expire January 1st, 1895 was rejected.

The bill was then reported to the Senate from the Committee of the Whole and all amendments were rejected. Further amendments offered by Gray and Vilas were rejected.

Palmer of Illinois moved to amend the seventh section by striking out the words "repealed immigration," and inserting the words "prohibit in whole or in part introduction of persons and property."

This was agreed to without division and the section as amended agreed to. The bill was then passed without division.

Chandler of New Hampshire said he would allow the special order as to the bill prohibiting immigration for one year to lapse but would bring it up at an early day.

The anti-options bill was taken up and Vilas read the second part of his argument against it.

The passage of the bill, he declared, would be an attempt at the violation of the Constitution and encroachment on the rights of States and of the interests of the people. At the close of Vilas' speech a vote was taken on the amendment offered by White of Louisiana to strike out the last proviso to a section 2.

A bill was introduced for the selection of Presidential electors by Congressional districts, as in Michigan.

No quorum being present the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE.

The House today, in conformity with a resolution from the Committee on Rules, proceeded to the consideration of Orange's joint resolution proposing amendments to the Constitution, substituting the 31st day of December for the 4th day of March as the commencement and termination of the official terms of members of the House of Representatives and United States Senators, and providing that Congress shall hold an annual meeting the second Monday in January and substituting the 30th day of April for the 4th day of March as the commencement and close of the terms of the President and Vice President.

Chipman (Dem., Mich.) and Crane (Rep., Ohio) Hooker (Dem., Miss.) and Cookran (Dem., N. Y.) opposed it. In his speech Cookran said the proposed amendment would open a wide breach in the constitutional system through which disputes of every character may enter. Disputes which may cast a doubt for years upon the title of President and even array the people of the country into hostile camps, warring against each other.

English (Dem., N. J.) opposed the bill, Bushnell (Dem., Wis.) advocated the measure, as did also Boutner (Dem., La.) and Springer (Dem., Ill.).

It is believed that the reforms proposed by the joint resolution would conduce to prosperity and the well-being of the people. Reed (Rep., Mich.) seconded Cookran's attack upon the measure and made one of his characteristic speeches, vigorous and witty. The vote then came on ordering the joint resolution to third reading. The vote resulted—yeas, 49; nays, 121, thus defeating the measure. House then adjourned.

Silver Matters.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—The Senate Finance Committee today began an informal discussion of the silver question that indicated a thoroughly bent committee and the outcome proposed the repeal of the Sherman Act of 1890. It was developed that there was no perfect unanimity among the Republicans regarding the strategic move or yesterday on the part of Aldrich, Sherman, although it is understood that he is opposed to such aggressive action on the part of the younger members, is, however, in favor of a repeal of the law which bears his name, and so expressed himself on the floor of the Senate.

Senator Morrill is also in earnest in supporting any proposition that will tend to remove the danger of free coinage and also favors its repeal, while the standing of Aldrich on the money question is too well known to need any explanation.

Early in the afternoon in the discussion of the matter and the attack indulged in by Senators who, at the meeting, showed that the proposition was being considered upon a broad basis of statesmanship rather than the narrow plane of party policy or political expediency.

White Inaugurated.

DENVER, Col., Jan. 10.—The inauguration of David H. White, the eighth Governor of Colorado as a State, took place this afternoon at the Broadway Theatre in the presence of both houses of the Legislature and several thousand spectators. After the oath of office was administered White was introduced by Governor Routt, after which the new executive delivered an address.

Banking and Currency Report.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Representative Cate of Arkansas prepared a report of the majority to accompany the Sherman silver bullion purchase repeal bill agreed upon by the House on banking and currency yesterday. It asserts that the circulation be increased between $15,000,000 and $16,000,000 by the first section of the bill, which provides that National banks may issue bills to the par value of the bonds deposited.

The committee will submit its report of the bullion purchase clause in the Sherman Act with no other comments than that the experience of the past two years has demonstrated that the policy entered upon at the time of its passage has failed to afford substantial benefit to any one and its continuance is a menace to the prosperity of the country. The committee realizes that its proposition will stop the increase in the circulating medium by the issue of Treasury notes in the purchase of silver, but the first section of the bill furnishes a large increase of circulation and one which it is the opinion of the committee is much safer and more likely to supply the needs of the country at large.

The committee also believes that cessation of all silver purchases by the Government will not merely efficiently aid in the effort to reach an international agreement fixing the ratio of gold and silver for coinage purposes throughout the civilized world, but that such legislation as it proposes is prerequisite to reaching an international agreement. With respect to the Cate amendment providing for the coinage of the silver bullion now in the Treasury into silver dollars, the report says this will also furnish a considerable increase to circulating medium.

Friends of the Andrew Cate banking and silver repeal bill are confident they can get it up in the House for consideration, but are in doubt as to their ability to bring it to a vote. They expect a special order from the Rules Committee giving the bill a day in the House.

Murphy Was the Choice.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 10.—The Assembly Chamber was filled with Democrats of high and low degree from all quarters of the State to-night when the Democratic members of the Senate and Assembly met in joint caucus to fix upon a candidate to succeed United States Senator Frank H. Cook. All the Democratic Senators and Assemblymen were present with one exception.

Senator Cantor arose and formally presented the name of Hon. Edward Murphy, Jr., of Troy for the Senatorial nomination. At mention of Murphy's name the large audience began clapping, but this soon gave way to cheering which kept up for several minutes.

After several other speeches a ballot was taken and showed the total number of votes cast to be 90, of which Murphy received 85 and Bourke Cochran 5.

The vote was read and the cheer announced the nomination of Mr. Murphy. The caucuses immediately adjourned without making the nomination of Murphy unanimous.

Blaine's Condition.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—There is but little hope for the anxious family of Mr. Blaine to the statement that he is better, for he is kept alive only by the utmost care and skill of his medical attendants. As an intimate friend of the family expresses it, "it is only a question of how long the doctors can ward off the end, they know it must come before very long. The nitroglycerine which the doctors are administering now, is probably the most potent stimulant known to the profession in such cases and its use shows that every other resource has failed."

At 10 P. M. the doctors attending Blaine gave out the following bulletin:

"Blaine passed a quiet day without incident. He has shown more strength than yesterday and his conversation and manner are unusually bright and cheerful." The doctors stated in addition that they had left for the night and should not return unless sent for.

Memorializing Congress.

BORST, Idaho, Jan. 10.—The silver question and the Cœur d'Alene riots of last Summer were both before the House today.

A joint memorial to Congress praying for the free coinage of silver was under consideration when Mills of Bingham introduced an amendment limiting the request to the free coinage of the American product. This precipitated a lively discussion, after which the amendment was defeated by a vote of 24 to 12.

A resolution was introduced providing for the appointment of three Representatives and two Senators to investigate the causes leading up to the Cœur d'Alene troubles. After considerable discussion the resolution was referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

BOSTON, Jan. 10.—A fire broke out this morning at 2:07 A. M. 219 Federal street. Despite the best efforts of the firemen it is spreading south and east, and promises to be an extensive conflagration. District Chief Mallon has been buried under the falling walls, and it is reported that four firemen were crushed in a like manner. The total loss by the fire is estimated by the firms interested at $1,655,000. The principal losers are Reel Bros on stock of wool $900,000, W. A. Stetson & Co. $250,000, White Bros. & Co. $200,000, I. A. Kestland lost a million and a quarter pounds of wool with $80,000 insurance. Joseph F. Barker is thought to have lost his life.

IRRIGATION ENGINEERING.

We Need a Department of Irrigation Engineering at Our Universities.

The following paper was read before the Technical Society of the Pacific Coast:

The practical irrigator of the West has to an unusual extent been thrown upon his own resources. Experience has been his teacher. The methods he employs in the cultivation of his soil, in the application and control of his water, are generally the direct outcome of local experience. If methods are at fault, if his practice be bad, he knows it not. He looks to the immediate results, and if those be satisfactory, he is content. He may be doing himself untold injury, as when by systems of irrigation which involve upward movement of moisture from subsoil to surface, he causes an accumulation of the dreaded alkaline salts at the surface; yet he remains ignorant of the cause of the deterioration of his soil and continues the bad practice. Even when he recognizes the cause, he looks in vain for reliable authority as to the best remedy. Copious irrigation very often causes so great a rise of the water table that drainage of soil becomes as important an element in the cultivation of crops as irrigation itself.

THE IRRIGATOR NEEDS INSTRUCTION

And advice on this point; where shall he get it? Methods of irrigation should always be adopted after mature consideration, and should be dependent upon the available "head of water" upon topographical conditions, such as slope of the ground's surface, etc., upon character of soil and subsoil and the nature of the crop to be irrigated. It is not only important to adopt the best method of applying water, but it is equally important to irrigate at the right time and to avoid excessive use of water. The question is frequently asked and not easily answered: "What shall be the general method of irrigation when this causal system is complete?" In California accident has often shaped the answer to this question. Where the water table was readily affected by the water sinking from canals and ditches, as in the King's River Delta, the method of controlling water table elevations has found general acceptance; yet even to-day most of the irrigators in that section generally attribute the wetting of their soils to lateral horizontal percolation from their ditches. Wild flooding, or the spreading plan of applying water in the Kern River country, was soon found to be wasteful of the supply, and expensive by reason of the great amount of labor required to control the water. It led to irrigation by flooding in contour checks, which method is admirably adapted to certain conditions of water supply, and to localities where the ground's surface has a fall of less than twenty feet per mile. Elsewhere, on surfaces naturally smooth with very light slopes, rectangular checks have been successfully substituted for contour checks, but these might fail under other conditions or in other localities.

Farrow irrigation in all its forms, with and without drainage, has found application in many parts of this State, but its introduction on the Great Plains, Merced country, on a large scale, early in the history of irrigation in the San Joaquin Valley, proved a signal failure. WHERE WATER FOR IRRIGATION IS LIMITED to quantity, special precautions must be taken to avoid waste, and oftentimes only those portions of the soil are wet, where moisture will produce the greatest benefit. A careful study of conditions becomes necessary to attain the best results. Not less important than the question of method of applying water to land, is the study of soil treatment after water has been applied, and the frequency of irrigation under various conditions of soil character, depth of soil, topography and crops cultivated. In determining what shall be the method of water application or the practice of irrigation, the element of cost must be taken into consideration, cost of water, water rates or canal management, cost of ditching, cost of land preparation, cost of applying water, etc.

THE CONSTRUCTION OF IRRIGATION OR IRRIGATION ENGINEER

Of to-day is not expected to be a practical agriculturist or irrigator, much less a scientist. He is rarely qualified to give reliable advice on all these matters, even if he should be called on to do so. His training is defective and provision should be made to remedy the defect. The dissemination of thorough information on all these points, in the light of experience of irrigators in all parts of the world, not alone in one locality, or throughout one State, is desirable. Scientific investigation, study and instruction are necessary. Such investigation, instruction and dissemination of useful information should be in charge of a properly constituted department at one or more of the Universities of every State in which irrigation is practiced. In matters of this kind our Universities should take the lead. They should be thoroughly equipped, as it is their especial province to point out and make accessible the lessons of experience that may be of special value for the advancement of human welfare.

THE DEPARTMENTS OF AGRICULTURE

Or Irrigation Engineering, as already established in Utah and Colorado, and since in Arizona, Wyoming and Dakota, are devoted to work of this character. In no State is the need of such a department more keenly felt at the present time than in California.

MATTERS OF PURELY AGRICULTURAL INTEREST

With irrigation in its bearings on agriculture as a secondary feature, are well looked after by the Agricultural Department of the State University at Berkeley, but that department should be supplemented or combined with another, in which the engineering features of canal construction, control of water, development and storage of water, measurement of flowing water, water distribution and apportionment, loss of water in transit to lands by percolation and evaporation, canal management, methods of irrigation and drainage, soil examinations, etc., of irrigation on soil, climate, health and all kindred matters can be made a specialty. Such a department might well be placed in charge of a professor of irrigation engineering, and it certainly would be as popular, as it is necessary for the proper development of our resources. I desire to suggest the establishment of such a department at a University of every State in which lands are irrigated, and particularly in California. It would be of immediate utility, and would result in the training of young men as specialists in the "direction" in which we at present see the greatest possibilities for development; in the direction of a change from ranching on a large scale, to the intense cultivation of the soil in small tracts by the contented farmer.

SAN FRANCISCO MEAT MARKET.

Beef Steady and Mutton Advancing.

The Butcher's Gazette says: "The beef market since our last report has been very steady, this is possibly due to the recent spell of cold weather causing an increasing demand and no surplus of live stock in the country. Should the present condition of the weather continue which is decidedly favorable to the wholesalers for slaughtering and keeping beef, we do not expect to see any change in our quotations for some little while. Taking the present condition of affairs beef is not high and raises contend that there is no great money in fed beef at 6 cents, 6 1/2 cents is top notch with good cattle selling from 5 1/2 to 5 3/4 cents. There is not an over abundance of poor or thin stock on the market as generally at this season of the year. Stockmen prefer to hold their beef until after early grass fed cattle come to market. The condition of the beef is nearly all of good quality and receipts are principally from Nevada with a sprinkling of Northern California thrown in."

MUTTON.

In our last issue the condition of the market was such that it was probable that at any moment prices would be advanced. We were not far wrong in our anticipations and we advance our quotations a strong half cent all around. It is probable that the market will yet take a further jump upward, but we do not look for any advance on our figures for the next ten days. "The price we quote below are for round lots: single sides of beef and single carcasses of sheep, calf or hog, if selected and extra choice, are sometimes a point higher."

	Per lb.
Extra prime medium and heavy, top prices	8 to 8 1/2
Stewers, first quality	5 to 5 1/2
Stewers, second quality	5 to 5 1/2

RULE-ANGELL

A Well-Known Couple United in Marriage.

Henry B. Rule and Miss Cora L. Angell were united in marriage yesterday at the residence of the bride's parents at Silver City, Lyon county. They arrived on last evening's V. & T. a large number of their friends and acquaintances being at the depot to receive them and extend congratulations.

Mr. Rule is one of Reno's foremost young business men, being a leading real estate and insurance agent. He is popular with all classes and therefore has hosts of friends to wish him uninterrupted bliss and prosperity.

The bride is a native daughter of the State and has taught school in Reno for several years. By her cheerfulness of character and pleasing manners she has endeared herself to both young and old. While Mr. Rule is to be congratulated upon his good fortune in securing the assistance of so worthy a companion in the battle of life, it is to be regretted that our public school system has lost so valuable a teacher as Miss Angell has proven herself to be.

Deserves Attention.

If you have money to invest in Reno real estate, either in large or small amounts, the Reno Real Estate and Investment Company offers most particular inducements to you. By investing in its shares of stock you participate in its investments which are governed by its able and experienced Board of Trustees, consisting of Mr. C. T. Bender, Mr. Sol Levy, Mr. C. O. Powning, Mr. Geo. F. Tarrittin and Mr. A. G. Fletcher. The principle object of the company is to purchase and improve centrally located business property in the city of Reno. Everyone is of one mind as to the desirability of such investments. The company is incorporated with a capital of $100,000, divided into 20,000 shares of the par value of five dollars each, and from its already large list of share holders there is every reason to believe that it is destined to become one of the most flourishing companies in the State. Of its 20,000 shares there have been 12,000 sold since August 1st.

Its shares are sold upon the monthly installment plan of ten cents per share, installments to range over a period of fifty months. In this way persons of moderate means are enabled to combine and participate in investments that usually only fall to the lot of the fortunate capitalist. Mr. F. M. Lee, the Secretary of the company, will be pleased to furnish any desired information.

A Notorious Report.

The JOURNAL is authorized by United States Marshal Moore to deny the rumor published in certain newspapers and extensively circulated that he is a defaulter to the Government and had departed from the State. He says that instead of owing the Government the Government is indebted to him to the amount of about $4,000, and that no resident of Reno is on his bond.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

THE BI-CHLORIDE INSTITUTE.

A Firm Believer in the Efficacy of Its Treatment.

EDITOR JOURNAL:—There has recently been established in our city an institution for the cure of inebriety, opium habit and kindred diseases. To the mind of the writer the establishment of such an institution in our midst means much to the community and should receive the honest endorsement of all good people, provided the results shown merit such endorsement, and it is to results that the rank and file of us must look. It is most assuredly our privilege to investigate for ourselves, with the right to withhold our decision until the evidence is all in. If unable to discuss theories we may appreciate facts. When facts are denied the burden of proof must rest with the objector.

Before coming to Reno the writer of these lines lived in a city where a "gold cure" institute was located. Having investigated the subject himself and having seen the wonderful cures wrought, he wishes unhesitatingly to place himself on record as a firm believer in the efficacy and reliability in the "cure." In the institution referred to all classes were treated and cured. Men who had lost honor and character, and even the ability for carrying on the ordinary business of life, experienced complete emancipation from the terrible thirst for liquor. Many were picked up from the gutter and their eyes made to sparkle with a new hope. Some cured really bordered on the miraculous.

A branch of the Western Bi-Chloride Institute is now located in our city and guarantees a cure in every instance. The managers are personally known to the readers of the JOURNAL, and their integrity is beyond question. Yours,

W. B. POPE,
Pastor Baptist Church.

Fire at Boca.

Word was received in Reno yesterday that the buildings of the Boca Brewing Works were in flames, but particulars of the conflagration are very meagre.

From the hands on the swing train which arrived here last evening it was learned that the fire started about 12:30 yesterday in the bottling department, and quickly spread to the adjoining buildings, which were soon in ruins. The origin of the fire is unknown, but it is supposed to have started from the carelessness of some of the workmen.

The loss is variously estimated at from $75,000 to $100,000, which is partly covered by insurance.

The brewery was one of the oldest on the coast, having been established in 1874. It will probably be rebuilt shortly.

Public School Entertainment.

A pleasing entertainment will shortly be given by the pupils of the High and Grammar departments of the public school for the purpose of raising funds for a worthy object. The object is to assist the lady who was so unfortunate as to be the cause of young Eiden McNeer's recent accident, which resulted in the breaking of his arm, in paying the bills arising from the same. The time and place and nature of the entertainment will soon be announced, and it is hoped that Reno's citizens, who have shown themselves as liberal in the past, will kindly lend a helping hand to those who have taken on themselves this fraternal duty.

NO BIG ANIMALS.

WHAT VAST AREAS OF LAND IN TORRID COUNTRIES LACK

Some Districts in Which There Are No Wild Animals of Considerable Size. Islands of the West Indian Archipelago Called a "Gameless Country."

A Russian naturalist, Professor MacLay, who passed several years in the interior of Papua, describes the highland district of the great island as a region as remarkable for its scenery and productivity as for its salubrious climate—a perpetual May in the terrace lands, with March and April plateaus here and there in the highest mountains. The area of the whole island exceeds that of Texas, but its population hardly aggregates a million, nine-tenths of the aborigines being lowland settlers, black idlers gorged with the yam roots and wild hog steaks of the coast plain. The uplands, too, abound with game and fish, and the only conceivable reason why the natives should limit their hunting grounds to the sweltering coast jungles is their preference for a climate that enables them to dispense with dry goods the year round.

In the Torres range there are summits towering to the height of 11,000 feet, but the close proximity of the coast has covered the highlands with a luxuriant vegetation. Snow is hardly ever seen, but chill nights—light frosts even—occur now and then, and the frizzle haired coast dwellers avoid the mountains as the Indians of Mexico avoid the lowlands of the sierra. The kingdom of mammals is represented only by a few marsupials (gracilis kangaroos, tree kangaroos and opossums), and the wild hogs of the river jungles.

A much stranger country in regard to the absence of wild animals is found in the near neighborhood of our own continent. The West Indian archipelago, with its four magnificent islands and countless islets, has been justly termed the "gameless country." A region of more than a hundred thousand square miles, monopolized almost entirely by birds and insects (even reptiles being scarce), as if the archipelago had been somehow overlooked on the last two days of creation, and left to be settled by such creatures as could reach its coasts swimming or flying. There are forests teeming with spontaneous fruit, but no monkeys, no wild hogs, no bears or raccoons. The larger carnivora are not represented by a single species.

No panthers or jaguars (though both are found on the coasts of the neighboring mainland), no panthers, lynx or wildcats. Foxes, wolves and jackals, too, are conspicuous by their absence. The caves of the limestone Sierra would seem to be admirably adapted to mammoths and woolly rhinos, but they are tenanted only by bats. On the fine highland pastures there are no bison, no deer, no antelope, and, strange to say, not even rabbits. Sheep, goats, horses, donkeys, cows, hogs and even dogs were introduced after the Spanish conquest, and the only domestic mammal kept by the natives at the time of discovery was a small kind of wolf (prairie wolf) imported from Mexico, and a few species of squirrels, which the Cubans fattened for culinary purposes without knowing anything about a classic precedent—the glutton (rat kennel) of the ancient Romans, who preferred dormouse on toast to the best Syrian pheasant pies.

Dogs and cats were unknown, and that lack of household pets seems to have driven the aborigines to strange expedients, for in "Ogilvy's Voyages" there is an account of a San Domingo cacique who kept a tame manatee that made its headquarters in an artificial pond, and was so well tamed that "when called by its name, Matoom, it would come out of the water and go directly to the cacique's house, where, being fed, it returned to the pond, accompanied by men and boys, who seemed to charm the manatee by their singing, and it often carried two children at a time on its back. Being once, however, struck by a spike in the hands of a Spaniard it would never after come out of the water if a clothed man were near.

Manatees have become rather scarce on the coast of San Domingo, but are often seen near the Island of Pinos, northwest of Cuba, where shoals of the strange creatures may be seen sporting about the reef like the sea lions below the Cliff House. Of all aquatic mammals the manatee, however, can claim the championship in the art of dodging sudden attack; a leveled harpoon is enough to make them plunge under with a "no you don't" snort, and then pop up again at unexpected times and places, winking their flippers in derision, and ready to disappear for good at the first suspicious motion.

The luxury of the Dominican cacique was therefore not apt to be shared by many of his subjects. Puppies and kittens were never seen in their cabins, and the largest land animal of the island was an overgrown rat, known as the hutia, and measuring about eighteen inches without the tail. Its caudal appendage is a compromise between that of the true rat and the California gopher, whom it resembles in its fondness for grain and in its burrowing mania, one pawing often as many as four different dens, more or less connected by subterranean tunnels.

With the exception of that shy rosette, Cuba, San Domingo, Jamaica and Costa Rica have no land creatures deserving the name of a game animal, for even the omnivorous appetite of the Elyan darters draw the line at the musk scented giant rats of the coast forests.—San Francisco Chronicle.

"August Flower"

For two years I suffered terribly with stomach trouble, and was for all that time under treatment by a physician. He finally, after trying everything, said stomach was about worn out, and that I would have to cease eating solid food for a time at least. I was so weak that I could not work. Finally on the recommendation of a friend who had used your preparations

A worn-out with beneficial results, I procured a bottle of August Flower, and commenced using it. It seemed to do me good at once. I gained in strength and flesh rapidly; my appetite became good, and I suffered no bad effects from what I ate. I feel now like a new man, and consider that August Flower has entirely cured me of Dyspepsia in its worst form. JAMES E. DEDRICK, Sangerites, New York.

W. B. Utsey, St. George's, S. C., writes: "I have used your August Flower for Dyspepsia and find it an excellent remedy."
